DWYER BROS'. FILLY FIRST

BELLA B. CANBIES OVERWEIGHT AND WINS THE LADIES' STAKES.

McLaughlin Lends the Crack Jockeys Carrison, Pitspatrick, Hayward, Donahue-Mr. Withers's Maxim Filly Wins a Handleap Sweepstakes-Other Races. Jerome Park in her levellest dress, flanked by a fair racing card, did not prove a great ttraction yesterday. The historical Ladies' Stakes were run for before an assemblage of about three thousand people, who when not engrossed in plying fans or handkerchiefs, were engaged in the task of selecting winners-a most difficult job. If thoroughbreds were possessed of the power of speech and could tell their owners how much latent power lay beneath their shining coats, what a wonderful beip it would be! The Dwyer Brothers' fine fly Bella B., carried just $100 stable money. Mr. Philip Dwyer betting $50 each way on her as a chance. The other brother, Michael, favored Mr. Haggin's Blithesome, and played her to win a snug sum. McLaughlin declared two pounds overweight on Bella B. and the conkers declared that she was pair, Blithesomo and Daniella were pronounced favorites. The pool selling on this event excelled the haleyon days when Pierre Lorillard, W. K. Vanderbilt, and the Dwyers old $1,000 for choice of horses. Frank Rummel event excelled the heleyon days when Pierre Lorillard, W. K. Vanderbilt, and the Dwyers bid $1,000 for choice of horses. Frank Rummel had no difficulty in securing $500 for the Haggin pair. Mr. Withera's Invermore filly wrought $180. Bella B., $170; Bellinda, $120, and the field, including Golden Reci. Luminary, and Fanita, sold for $125-one pool.

The glanuour of Mr. Haggin's success on Tuesday was everywhere, and nobody could see anything in it but the Snapper and Blithesome. "They'll run first and second," said a short, red-faced man as he brashed the perspiration from his brow and critically scanned a bunch of Haggin tickets. McLaughlin, when questioned about Bella B.'s chances, said they were not particularly rosy, as she had been coughing. As the filly cantered past the stand on her way to the starting peats she coughed two or three times, causing the wiseacres to shake their beads knowing?

During the morning Ate Garson told some of his friends to play Golden Reel. Those who did so had reason to feel grateful if they took a little of it both ways, as the final issue was between Bella B. and the Morris cast off, the former getting the vordict by a head only, Golden Reel came very fast in the last fifty yards, and had Blaylock moved a trille sooner the tables might have been reversed. The Haggin pair were never prominent, and, to say the least, made a sorry exhibition. The winner is the filly that great things were expected of last year: but after showing wonderful bursts of speed in her work she went wrong and was turned out. She is a full sister to inspector B. Inspector Byrnes, after whom the colt was named in compliment by Michael Bwyer, was at Jerome Park yesterday. No doubt he took a flyer on the filly.

The onening race over the Titan course brought out a large field of sprintera. Old Sam Harper had a lot of weight off, and feeling in the moud showed his competitors a clean pair of heels in the run home. He was completely overlooked by the talent. Banburg took things easily, and loafed along in the

The large field made a snug and fast race. Choctaw, Sam Harpor, Jr., King Crab, and Laredo breaking away nearly abreast, with Longlight at the tail of the group. Sam Harper, Jr., and Choctaw formed a team in the lead at the club house bluff, Larado and King Crab also yoked in second place, and all in rucing shape. They made the bend for the lower turn in the Same positions, but when they came in sight Mr. Withers's Cyclone colt had moved out of the ruck and taken the lead by an open length from Sam Harper, Jr. Sam had the colt by the neck at the head of the stretch, and Godfrey rode for the money as he sent Sam bowling along the stretch for the winning line. The Cyclone colt was drawn back into the ruck when the issue came, and Choctaw took up the running after the leader, but without avail. Godfrey landed Sam Harper, Jr., winner a length in iront of Choctaw, per, Jr., winner a length in front of Choctaw, Laredo finishing third at Choctaw's neck.

The horses were sent away in fair shape, with Ariel, Orlway, Queen of Elizabeth, and Banner Bearer bunched, McLaughlin bringing up the rear on Richmond on the run to Pienio Hill, rounding which Billy Donohue had Orlway a length and a half in the lead. Queen of Elizabeth ran second to Ordway until they nearest the head of the stretch, when she began to fade away, and Richmond made for the leader, pressed by Banner Bearer. But none could hold the pace down the stretch with Ordway, He won by two open lengths, never having been headed from the start. Banner Bearer came in second, with Richmond at his flank.

Mr. Caldwell sent the fillies away well in line across the truck, McLaughlin moving Bella B. away with her head in front, and the invermoro filly last. McLaughlin held Bella B. in with a firm grasp, while Fitzpatrick headed the group on the run round Fienie Hill on Luminary, Bilthesome and Daniella lapping Luminary, and all in close order. Luminary drew out a length in the light on the run to the bluff, when McLaughlin gave Bella B. her head, so that she reached and half lapped the leader as they disappeared in the loop. Coming in sight lella B. was leading, with Luminary at her flank, Golden Reel third, and all the others close up in the race. At the head of the stretch it was Bella B. There may be such a thing as luck in base ball, but luck had nothing to do with yesterday's game at the Polo grounds between the New York and Indianapolis Clubs. It was the cropping out of big, plump and full-grown errors that turned the tide first in our favor and then against us. It was a clear case of rattles that lost New York the game. Failure to make the easiest plays resulted in the costliest errors. Crane and Murphy were the New York's battery, while Boyle and Myers were in the points for the visitors. Of the pitchers Crane did the better work, but he did not receive the support from Murphy that the latter player generally gives to his pitcher. As for Crane's field support—well, the less said about it the better. It was not a pretty game by any means, and fine plays were at a premium. The hits on either side were scattered through the different innings and were not of any decided value in the run-getting. At the start off it looked as though New York had the best of it, but how deceptive appearances somelimes are! Gore sent a long fly to Hines, who fumbled the ball, and Gore reached second. Ward's bunt hit, which he beat to first, let Gore get third. Lewing hit a slow grounder to Glasscock, who took a fleider's chance and attempted to throw Gore out at the plate, but foiled. The visitors began their half of the first inning with the score one run in favor of the New Yorks. Seery hit a grounder to Richardson which the latter fell over, and the runner scored on a three-base hit by Hines. The New Yorks had a line chance to take the lend in the third inning. With three men on bases, two hands out, and Slattery at the bat, it was, indeed, an interesting time. Every one held his breath, but it was useless, for Slattery only forced Connor out at second.

The game was then somewhat steady until the fifth inning when the visitors took the lead. Hits by Myers and Boyle sent Myers took the lead. Hits by Myers and Boyle sent Myers to third, and he made a grand attempt to get home on Seery's fly to Foster. The latter made a pretty throw in of it, but Murphy, who received the ball in time, dropped it, and the runner was safe. Fester started the seventh inning with a hit, stole second on a bad throw by Myers, and was forced out at the plate by Crane.

The latter also stole second, and scored on a hit to Gore. Ward got first on an error by Bassett, and Gore seered on a hit by Ewing. This gave New York the lead for the time beling, but it did not last long. In the same inning Migenchy got to first or balls, and moved up a base on Esterbrook's hit. Myers's out at first and Boyle's fly to Richardson put the runners on second and third, while MeGeachy had seered on a wild throw by Slattery. Seery then hit a sharp grounder to Ward, which he handled well, but Connor dropped the ball after getting it in his hands, Esterbrook, in the meantime, had run home and was safe.

This error was the turning point. Seery start in the run-getting. At the start off it looked as though New York had the best of it, but how Washinaton, June 6.—In reply to an inquiry from a representative of The Sun, President N. Z. There was probably no intention of violating any rule, and the Board may order the game to be played over. In the Pittsburgh New Tork forfeited game, the decision of the umpire stands for the present at least, The Pittsburghs have made a formal appeal from his ruling in that instance, and the Board of Directors will also determine whether or not that game shall stand as victory for victory.

Pittanetrina, June 6.—Manager Schmeitz was very mad after to day's game. "we have been paying in very hard luck," said he, "and to-day we had a fighting chance for a game, but Weich tried his old trick and purposely put ont his arm and was hit with a pitched ball in the eleventh hinning. Desceiner allowed him to take dist base, and gave the Athletics an extra chance. We can show one of the property of the League blatmen too." Sanders is six feet high and weighs lwp pounds. The reason that Moffett did not pitch yesterday was on account of his having received a despatch from home that his father was dying.

WEDNESDAY, June 6. It is possible that the interest in political de velopments was largely responsible for the practical suspension of business upon the Stock Exchange to-day. Certainly, a good many of those who are active in the managetimes, active in Wall street, Besides, the street has come to the conclusion that the business of the country will be influenced, to an extent, in this Convention upon the question of taxation, which, of course, includes the tariff.

After the first hour the market became absolutely stagmant. St. Paul was, if anything, the feature, and the common stock sold at the lowest price it has yet touched, while the preferred, on a smaller volume of trading than yestorday, showed some improvement. Rending, which ranked second in point of activity, was, notwithstanding, comparatively dull; but it was much steader than yestorday. The street continues to discuss the Rending loan quite as much as any other subject. The authority is a first sunderstood that the $24,630,000 of books of the loan were closed to-day, atterthey had been formally opened about the co-hours, and it is understood that the $24,630,000 of books of the loan were closed to-day, atterthey as to the price at which the bonds have been seed upon the transaction, particularly as to the price at which the bonds have been offered by the probably disappear when the public is convinced that the company received $5 for the bonds, and that it (the public) has been treated more fairly in the matter which the scaling public that has complaints would seem to justify. However, it is not the face that, relatively bonds that have been taken for foreign account during the face that, relatively bonds that have been than the company preceived $5 for the bonds, and that it (the public) has been treated more fairly in the matter of the price that was obtained for the Baltimore and Ohlo 5s which were recently benefit to the public and the confidence of the syndicated. In relatively bonds that have been than for foreign account during the last week or so has begun to have a good deal below the posted rates for several days, but these rates are gradually being exchange. The market for sterling has been a good deal below the posted rates for several days, but these rates are gradually being lowered. As was noted in this column over a week ago, the market for sterling has been a good deal below the posted rates for several the League.

A suit of Douglas M. Rand and other residents of South Minneapolis against Levi M. Stewart, James E. Whitcomb, and R. O. Froter to secure an injunction against Sunday base hall playing was commenced last fail and a temporary order made prohibiting sames in the South Minneapolis grounds. With the prospect of another season of the same sort of distintiance the prosecution of the suit has been pushed with the result of a complete victory for the anti-base ball people. Judge Lochten yesterday made an order for a perpetual in junction forever restraining the owner. Mr. Stewart, or any of his iessees, servants, agents, or others claiming any rights through transfers of leases or interests from using the premises as a base ball ground on Sunday. shewed seemed in point of activity, was, notwithstanding, comparatively dull; but it was much steadler than yesterday. The street continues to discuss the Reading loan quite as much as any other subject. The subscription books of the loan were closed to-day, after they had been formally opened about these hours, and it is understood that the $24,600,000 of bonds offered have been subscribed for about two times over. The criticisms that have been passed upon the transaction, particularly as to the price at which the bonds have been offered to the public, will probably disappear when the public is convinced that the company received 35 for the bonds, and that it (the public) has been treated more fairly in the matter than its complaints would seem to justify.
However, it is not the investing public that has made the criticisms, but rather those who make a profession of depreciating the market value of other people's investments. A member of the syndicate, in referring to the matter today, called attention to the fact that, relatively—that is, considering the rate of interest—the Reading bonds were offered to the public 2½ % cent, above the price that was obtained for the Baltimore and Ohlo 5s which were recently negotiated.

The enormous quantity of American railway bonds that have been taken for foreign account during the last week or so has begun to have a perceptible effect upon the market for sterling exchange. The market for sterling has been a good deal below the posted rates for exeral days, but these rates are gradually being lowered. As was noted in this column over a week argo, the market for sterling has been a good deal below the posted rates for exeral days, but those rates are gradually being lowered. As was noted in this column over a week argo, the market for sterling has taken such a turn under this influence as to preclude the possibility of further exports of gold for some time to come.

Railroad earnings comprised an important part of to-day's news, but they had no effect upon the mar using the premises as a base ball ground on Sunday.—

I would return to the League fold to morrow if I could get away, but I am under contract for the season. If the League people will give me as much money as the Association pays Gaffney, you will likely find me one of the League umpires heat year. I had a long talk with President Nimick to day, and he urred me strongly to come back, saying he would do everything in his power to make the arrangement satisfactory."
